Irene Sottile-Cowper brings warmth, precision, and a global perspective to her work at For Purpose Law Group. Based in FPLG's Laramie office, Irene now serves as a Corporate Paralegal, supporting our legal team with the behind-the-scenes work that keeps nonprofit formations and corporate matters moving forward smoothly.

Before stepping into her paralegal role, Irene worked in new client intake, where she became known for her helpfulness, responsiveness, and ability to keep things organized while making people feel genuinely cared for. That client-focused foundation still shows up in everything she does—because to Irene, the details matter, and so does the experience.

Irene worked diligently to become a paralegal, bringing that same commitment and follow-through to her work supporting mission-driven leaders and the attorneys who serve them.

Originally from Italy, Irene is fluent in both languages and cultures—and brings the best of both to her role at FPLG. She's an avid traveler on a mission to visit every continent (yes, even Antarctica), and in her free time she's often found exploring the mountains or cooking up something delicious.
