As Director of Operations at For Purpose Law Group, Shelby Harris is the steady force behind the firm’s systems, service, and day-to-day magic. Based in the Laramie office, she oversees the infrastructure that keeps FPLG running smoothly—ensuring both clients and team members experience clarity, support, and seamless workflows from start to finish.

Shelby’s background includes extensive experience in administration, customer service, systems development, and client relations. That cross-functional expertise makes her the go-to problem solver and system builder across the firm. Whether she’s refining internal processes, supporting staff onboarding, or strengthening client-facing operations, Shelby’s focus is always on building an experience rooted in efficiency, ease, and care.

Beyond her operational wizardry, Shelby is known for her warmth, quick wit, and ability to make even complex systems feel simple and approachable.

When she’s off the clock, you’ll likely find her out adventuring with her rescue pups and husband, spoiling her flock of chickens, trying a new recipe, or diving into a craft project—usually all in the same weekend.

“Life’s short and often tough. So be genuine, honest, and kind. Do what you love, help others when you can, and when in doubt just add more cheese.”
